

August 7, 2019

The image files used in the analysis were generated from v02 of the L1C nighttime (NI1) data. These data were generated before the processing to L1C included corrections for in-flight changes to the sensitivity along the slit (referred to as a flat-field correction). Such changes are not thought to significantly alter the morphology of the EIA.

Richard Eastes